FCC rules have made radio broadcasting virtually unlistenable in the past decade. I have been collecting vintage and unique FM and AM tuners for the past four decades but, finally, in the last year I silenced the last one because here, in the Detroit area, there is NOTHING left on FM for an intelligent adult to listen to. When you allowed WPHS 89.1 to rebroadcast a useless satellite feed from North Carolina 24/7 thus blocking out WEMU 89.1, the only jazz/public radio outlet in SE Michigan, I finally gave up and bought XM satellite radio. It fulfills all that I need as far as commercial free music of all types, LOCAL WEATHER AND TRAFFIC, and sound quality.

Please don't meddle with XM or any other service THAT AMERICANS ARE PAYING FOR. You have already ruined free broadcast; don't screw up paid broadcast either.
